Howard Gibbs is, most likely, the only person in New York City who has used a personal computer at every stage of his professional life. He has taught computer science in the City University of New York since 1980 and has been on the CUNY faculty since 1986. A careful reader of the New York Times once said that when you meet Gibbs, you may wonder which part of him he is talking to. He doesn't have a big ego, he doesn't make much money, and he is very interested in helping other people learn to program. So we decided to ask him what he thinks the Text shown in the Collection dialog TV Show Icon Pack 1: All icons are available for free, however you can unlock additional icons for Premium and/or Support options. The icons are well crafted, they are compatible with Windows XP, Vista, 7 and Windows 8.Q: Add new element to ListBox I'm doing an app with the WPF version. I try to add a new item (selectable, drag and drop) in the listbox. After the creation of a new element I must add it to the listbox. `public void CreateCustomItems() { CustomItem item = new CustomItem(); item.Name = "Custom item " + Name; listBox1.Items.Add(item); } I would add this element to the listbox in the constructor of the UserControl, I'm just not sure where. I have the following code for the constructor: public ListBoxView() { this.InitializeComponent(); listBox1.DataContext = this; this.CreateCustomItems(); listBox1.SelectionChanged += new SelectionChangedEventHandler(listBox1_SelectionChanged); } And for the public void CreateCustomItems(): public void CreateCustomItems() { CustomItem item = new CustomItem(); item.Name = "Custom item " + Name; listBox1.Items.Add(item); } A: You need to assign the new item to the ItemsSource property of the ListBox: listBox1.ItemsSource = new List() {item}; Samsung's first foldable phone, the Galaxy Fold, will be released in South Korea on April 26, the company confirmed Thursday. Samsung said that it will begin selling the foldable smartphone in its home market on April 26, and it will roll out internationally, starting May 3.`
